

Senator Kennedy Has Broken Back In Plane Crash

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., younger brother of the late President John F. Kennedy, was hospitalized with a broken back today after a private plane crashed Friday night in an apple orchard taking two lives.

Dr. Thomas F. Corriden, who supervised immediate treatment of the senator at Cooley-Dickinson Hospital, said the 32-year-old Kennedy suffered several fractured vertebrae. But he has the use of his arms and legs, and is listed in "fair condition."

Less seriously injured in the crash were Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and his wife. Both were reported in good condition at the hospital.

Drizzly And Foggy

Killed in the crash was the pilot of the twin engine plane, Edward T. Zimny, 48, of Lawrence, Edward Moss, 41, Kennedy's administrative aide, died in the hospital of injuries suffered in the accident.

The plane was approaching Barnes Airport, in Westfield, shortly after 11 o'clock. The control tower at Barnes said it was in contact with the pilot and that he reported no difficulty. It had rained heavily earlier and was drizzly and foggy at the time.

It was believed that as Zimny approached the airport his plane may have hit the tops of trees in the fog. There was no fire.

The first witness, Robert Schauer said he heard the crash and then saw the wrecked plane 200 yards up a hillside in an apple orchard. He dashed up the hill to help.

Today's hospital bulletin said: Sen. Kennedy is in fair condition. He has improved considerably since his admission and is resting comfortably.

Many Fractures

"X-rays showed fractures of the fifth and sixth ribs on the left side, fractures of the second, third and fourth lumbar vertebrae (the lower back) and fractures of the second, third and fourth transverse processes, which give the spine support."

"There are no head injuries and no neurological complications. He has complete use of his legs and arms. He has cuts on both legs and the right hand."

Kennedy was to have been endorsed by acclamation at the Massachusetts State Democratic Convention for the U.S. Senate seat once held by his brother.

The accident occurred less than seven months after President Kennedy was killed by an assassin's bullets in Dallas, Tex.

The word of the crash shocked the cheerful convention which adjourned, talking of postponing the rest of the sessions for at least one week.

Red China Seen As Menace To Peace By U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration officials are said to be deeply annoyed and somewhat apprehensive at what they consider to be Western Europe's failure to grasp the gravity of the threat created by Red China's belligerent policies in Southeast Asia.

These officials foresee the possibility of more general war with Communist China as an eventual result if the Communist thrust is not stopped and if the leaders in Peking decide Western nations are soft in their reactions to aggression.

U.S. officials are trying to get across to European governments their view that if Peking believes Communist militancy pays dividends it can be expected to press its militant policies on various fronts as occasions arise.

U.S. policymakers appear to be convinced the challenge in Southeast Asia can only be met effectively by a military response such as the United States is making.

They also are trying to get the Europeans to understand that if the challenge increases the response will also be increased. The United States is firmly committed to defend Southeast Asia against a Communist takeover.

President Johnson, in a San Francisco speech Friday night, stressed this commitment and the American determination not to back down. He declared: "As long as I am President, I intend to see that America's defense can never be the object of doubt or her strength the subject of suspicion."

U.S. Ships Take Aid To Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Five U.S. navy ships are on their way to Thailand carrying military hardware for expansion of U.S. equipment stockpiles in this strategic Southeast Asian country, authoritative sources said today.

The ships, described as three LST's and two Navy freighters, are expected in Bangkok next week, the sources said. They said one may arrive as early as Monday or Tuesday.

According to the informants, the vessels are carrying trucks, M113 armored personnel carriers, some tanks, signal equipment, and ammunition. Vehicles are said to form the bulk of the load.

The equipment is obviously being brought here to increase U.S. military potential in this country bordering on crisis-torn Laos and will be added to stockpiles left here by American troops who came to Thailand in 1962 as a deterrent in an earlier Laos crisis.

The informants explained the buildup would enable American forces to react more quickly and with more punch against Communist aggression in Southeast Asia. Thailand is a firm ally of the United States.

While disclosing the equipment buildup, the sources denied rumors that American troops would also be shipped to Thailand—as they were in 1962.

Mile-a-Minute Winds Hit Area

By The Associated Press

Late spring storms continued at a lessened tempo today across a broad band of the nation's midsection.

More gentle rains today from the upper Plains to the mid-Atlantic Coast were the end of powerful thunderstorms which lashed a broad area of the Midwest late Friday night and early today.

Winds up to 96 miles an hour hit Omaha early today, coming after floods last Tuesday.

A tornado apparently struck Madison, Neb., the Weather Bureau said. It blew a barn apart and knocked a power pole down.

Burlington, Iowa, reported a half-inch of hail in 15 minutes early today. Funnel clouds were sighted in other parts of Iowa.

Mile-a-minute winds swept across parts of Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio Friday night, bringing heavy rain and hail. Homes were unroofed, trees uprooted and tender young crops damaged.

Many persons in outlying areas of Chicago were treated for cuts from flying glass.

The two hospitals in Joliet, Ill., reported treating 28 persons.

Peace-Keeping Force To Stay In Cyprus 3 Months

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Security Council voted unanimously today to extend the stay of the U.N. peace-keeping force in Cyprus for a second three months ending Sept. 26.

The 11-member council adopted a five-nation resolution for that purpose at 11:03 a.m. EDT at a Saturday meeting that attracted less than 200 spectators.

Sponsors of the resolution were Bolivia, Brazil, the Ivory Coast, Morocco and Norway, which had also sponsored the council's March 6 and March 13 resolutions on Cyprus that it reaffirmed.

Before the vote, Czechoslovakia and Nationalist China both announced that they would support the proposal.

Cuba Says U.S. Plane Downed In Mill Bombing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Cuban government claims to have shot down a plane from the United States after it bombed a sugar mill on Cuba's north coast.

"Pursued by an air force plane and attacked from the anti-aircraft batteries, the pirate plane was shot down on the north coast of Las Villas Province," the government said in an official statement broadcast by Havana radio Friday night and monitored in Miami.

The head of an exile group in Miami, Orlando Bosch, said, "I fear it was our plane." He refused to say what kind of plane it was, how many men were aboard or where it took off from.

The Cuban radio did not mention survivors. It said the attack took place at 11:45, but didn't specify a.m. or p.m., or even the day.

The statement said that the plane dropped three bombs on the Marcelo Salado mill near Caibarien, town almost exactly in the middle of Cuba's long coast.

One of the bombs exploded but no one at the mill was killed, the government said.

It charged that the plane flew from the United States. "We hope the U.S. government won't have the cynicism to deny these facts," the statement said.

Several weeks ago, Cuban exiles started talking about a new war of sabotage against Fidel Castro. Few forays against Cuba have been confirmed, however.

The Castro government admitted the anti-Castro forces attacked a sugar mill on the south coast in mid-May. It also said that a pirate boat attacked fishermen off Las Villas Province June 5 and was sunk.

An armed boat belonging to Bosch's Revolutionary Insurrectional Recovery Movement was stopped by U.S. officials as it headed for Cuba last year.

Exile groups have carried out air raids on Cuba previously. Once, a plane with an American pilot dropped a homemade bomb on a Havana refinery although no damage was done.

Rights Bill Wins, 73-27, After 83 Days Of Debate

Johnson Aims His Campaign At Los Angeles

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Johnson today directed his unofficial California vote-getting campaign at the area that gave Sen. Barry Goldwater his possibly crucial victory in California's Republican primary.

Johnson scheduled a mid-morning jet plane departure from Democratic-controlled San Francisco for the Los Angeles area.

The President was aiming his attention for the day at Los Angeles and Orange counties, the center of Goldwater strength in California.

Goldwater, who won the state's June 2 Republican presidential primary by 58,000 votes, gained a 150,000 - vote margin over rival Nelson A. Rockefeller, the governor of New York, in Los Angeles county. In Orange County, Goldwater's margin was about 50,000 votes.

These two counties are expected to hold the key to the outcome of the November presidential election in California. This same area gave the 1960 Republican ticket a narrow statewide victory over the Democratic slate of John F. Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson.

Officially, Johnson is mixing politics and official appearances during his three-day California tour that began Friday. Actually, he has yet to bypass politics at any stop.

Jury Says AP Libeled Walker

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A Fort Worth district court jury said Friday that former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker was libeled by Associated Press stories describing his activities during the 1962 segregation riot at the University of Mississippi.

The Associated Press gave immediate notice of appeal to the next highest state court, the 2nd Court of Civil Appeals in Fort Worth.

The verdict, after nine days of trial and 2 hours and 15 minutes of deliberation, said Walker should have $50,000 for actual damages and $300,000 for exemplary damages or punishment.

Walker had asked $2 million in alleged damages. This was the first suit to come to trial of a series totaling more than $20 million filed by Walker against the AP and various newspapers after the campus riot following admission of Negro student James H. Meredith. Two persons were killed in the riot.

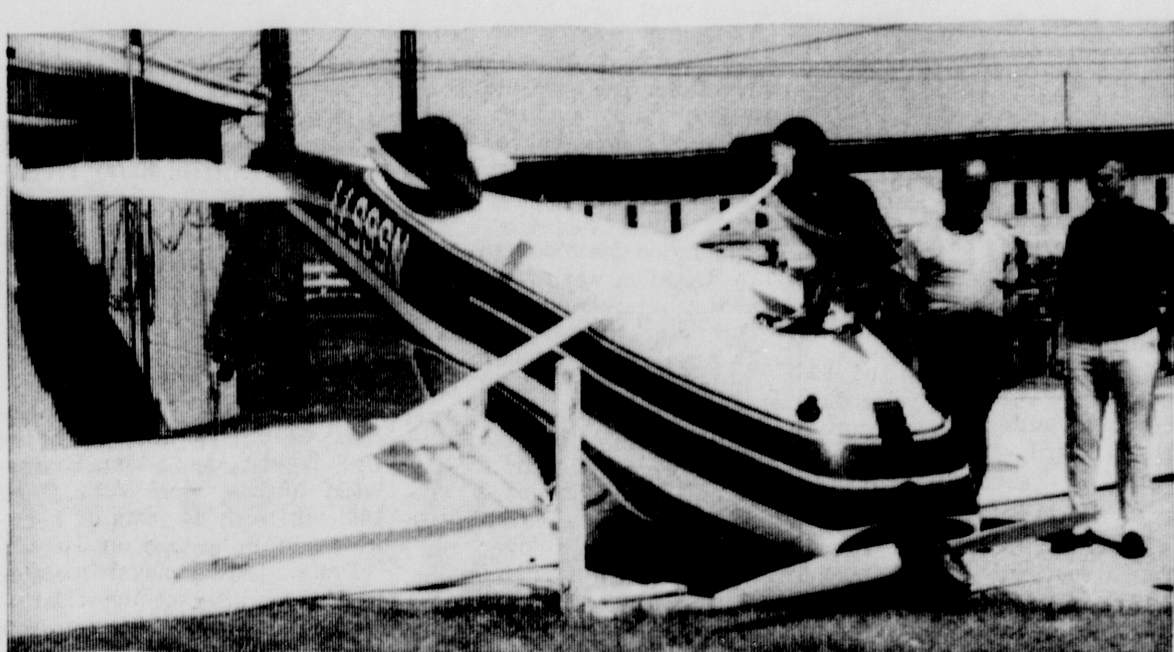

Testimony showed groups of students attacked U.S. marshals with rocks, sticks and bottles throughout the night of Sept. 30, 1962, and the marshals fired tear gas in return. Walker said he was on the campus in the midst of the disturbance for almost five hours but said he went there only to observe and his only active part was to make a speech. The AP said its stories were true in fact and substance.

Peking Backers Of Polish Reds Stage Revolt

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A pro-Chinese faction in the Polish Communist party staged a short-lived revolt against the pro-Soviet party leader, Wladyslaw Gomulka, a member of the Polish Communist party Politburo disclosed Friday.

Zenon Kliszko told the Polish party's fourth congress that the "trouble-making elements" had circulated slanders against Polish party's policies and leaders in an attempt to bring the party in line with Peking's brand of Communism.

"This activity was limited in scope and short-lived," Kliszko said. He reaffirmed the Polish party's allegiance to Moscow by attacking the Chinese for attempting to split other Communist parties.

WINDS RECORDED at 65 mph and which were estimated to have peaked in velocity gusts up to 80 mph, flipped this new Cessna Skyhawk plane at Escanaba Airport late Friday afternoon. It was being moved to a hangar for shelter when a gust of wind lifted it from the ground, flipped it on its back and threw it across a fence. The plane, owned by Jon Thorin Aviation and valued at $13,000, was just delivered this week. (Daily Press Photo)

Woman Brandishes Rifle To Guard Sign On M-77

MANISTIQUE — A warrant charging a 60-year-old German woman with intentional pointing a gun, but without malice has been issued in a clash between State Highway workmen and a gas station owner on removal of a sign.

Mrs. Fred (Christina) Lorenz, pointed a rifle at highway department men who were at the gas station of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz with a crane Wednesday afternoon to remove a sign which is in violation of a highway department order concerning those in right-of-way. The Michigan regulation stems from those of the federal road program.

According to information obtained by State Police officers, Cecil Prater of Naubinway discussed with Mr. Lorenz the removal of the sign, on the west side of M77 north of Blaney junction.

Mr. Lorenz objected to the removal but became conciliatory after discussions with department representatives.

When the men came with a crane to remove the sign, Mrs. Lorenz came out and pointed the gun first at Prater and then at Fred Smith of Naubinway, crane driver. Mr. Lorenz took the gun away from her and Highway Department employees left, officers reported.

Witnesses told officers they saw Lorenz remove a clip from the rifle, but they could not tell if it was loaded.

Others with Prater and Smith were Dorwin Sayer, Newberry; Miron Smith, Naubinway; John Robinson, Naubinway; and David Beaudoin, Engadine.

Mrs. Lorenz ordered the men to leave and to leave the sign where it was, stating "You're not going to move that sign, even if I have to go to jail," officers reported. She said the couple had been in business 15 years and that removing the sign would hurt their business.

A Circuit Court injunction has been issued by Judge George S. Baldwin, June 17, halting removal or threats of removal of the signs, citing that the department had ordered the signs down by June 15. This did not give adequate time for hearing, he said. The Germfask incident occurred at 1:05 p. m. the same day the injunction was issued, but apparently prior to the time notice of the injunction was filed with the highway department.

Thursday, State Police officer Leon Junkers and O. F. Eichen of Newberry, district highway maintenance engineer conferred with Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz. Mrs. Lorenz told the two she meant no harm, that what she did was wrong, that she wanted to scare the men away and that the gun was not loaded.

The charge is a Justice Court misdemeanor.

LANSING (AP)—Members of the Legislative Apportionment Commission took what probably was their final action today as they filed redistricting plans with the Michigan Supreme Court.

The action became necessary when the commission found itself deadlocked at its 5 p.m. deadline Friday.

Democrats refilled a strict population plan they submitted to the Michigan court last month.

Republicans, rushing to complete what was virtually their first set of strict-population redistricting plans, experienced mechanical difficulties and came close to the noon deadline today.

Several Alternatives They filed two petitions, said GOP research analyst Eldon Sneeringer, with several alternatives in each.

All the plans were among those discussed and voted on in the six-hour, last-ditch commission meeting Friday.

Among the Republican plans were alternatives which called for reducing Upper Peninsula representation in the House by one and shifting the representative to Monroe County.

Another would lump three townships and one city from Cass County with Van Buren in an attempt to even out population disparities.

It will be the third time the problem has been in the court's hands.

The court took over the problem in February when the State Legislative Apportionment Commission failed to agree on how to redraw State House and Senate districts.

It approved a plan May 26, but the U.S. Supreme Court ruled last Monday that both houses of a state legislature must be districted on a strict population basis — "one man, one vote." The Michigan court looked at the problem a second time and ordered the apportionment commission to come up with another plan.

Deadlocked 4 To 4 Eight minutes before the court-imposed deadline of 5 p.m. Friday, the commission gave up in a 4-4 deadlock again. The court gave it until noon today to file districting plans, and will take up the problem for the third time.

Four Republican members of the State Legislative Apportionment Commission said they would stand pat on the so-called Austin-Kleiner plan No. 2 — filed with the court last month.

Republican cochairman Wilber Brucker said Republican members were prepared to ask the U.S. Supreme Court for a stay of execution if the Michigan Court adopts the plan submitted by Democratic cochairman Richard Austin of Detroit and A. Robert Kleiner of East Grand Rapids.

"This democratic plan is a blueprint for election confusion and chaos," the former Michigan governor said, "and would be impossible for elections officials to administer."

Republicans contended that according to the U.S. high court's decisions, some deviation from strict population equality in each district was permissible, in order to follow existing county, township and city lines.

County Lines Cut For the state to adopt the Austin - Kleiner plan, Brucker said, would amount to a "desecration" of the State Constitution. The document calls for State Senate districts based 80 per cent on population and 20 per cent on area.

The second Austin - Kleiner submitted to the court May 11 in anticipation of a population ruling by the U.S. court, has a population disparity between districts of about 3,000.

Sponsors said, based on past voting patterns, it probably would result in control of the legislature by the party whose candidate was elected governor.

It cuts county lines in 17 places and was branded by one state elections worker as "an administrative nightmare."

The court presumably would draw up a redistricting plan of its own if those submitted fail to measure up to what it feels is the intention of the U.S. Court.

In a last - ditch effort at compromise, Republican William Hanna of Muskegon and Brucker split up each of the state's 19 congressional district in half — making 38 senate districts.

But Kleiner objected that "the maximum disparity in this plan would be 16,000, while in ours it would be 3,000. I can see no justification for such a disparity to follow the boundaries."

House Leaders Predict Quick OK On Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 83 days of debate, the longest in its history, the Senate passed the civil rights bill Friday night by an overwhelming 73-27 vote.

With that historic hurdle cleared the bill goes to the House on Monday where it is expected to receive prompt approval.

House leaders predicted that after a brief struggle the measure—to arm the federal government with the greatest power since Reconstruction to attack racial discrimination — will be on President Johnson's desk ready to be signed into law by July 4.

President Pleased In San Francisco, Johnson applauded the action, declaring:

"Senate passage of the rights bill is a major step toward equal opportunities for all Americans. I congratulate senators of both parties who worked to make passage possible."

"I look forward to the day, which will not be long forthcoming, when the bill becomes law. That will be a milestone in America's progress toward full justice for all her citizens."

Civil rights leaders also hailed passage of the measure as "an act of good will and reconciliation" and "the greatest single triumph for human rights in our country since the Emancipation Proclamation."

From the South, however, came predictions of disaster from some Dixie governors. Alabama's George C. Wallace predicted the American people "will remove from office those responsible."

Gallery Jammed Since Feb. 10, when the House passed its version of the rights bill, the focus of attention has been on the Senate where the bill faced its deepest peril from the Southerners' razor-sharp parliamentary weapons of delay and filibuster.

Finally the filibuster was broken when the Senate voted June 10, for the first time, to invoke cloture on a civil rights debate. That set the stage for Friday's vote.

Spectators jammed the visitors gallery and overflowed into a line that trailed under the pillars and down the broad Senate steps.

All 100 senators were on hand, including Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., recuperating from two brain operations, who was rolled up the aisle in a wheel chair.

The roll call moved swiftly and at 7:50 p.m. it was over. The bill had passed. The gallery broke into applause.

Voting for it were 46 Democrats and 27 Republicans. Against it were 21 Democrats—including 29 Southerners—and six Republicans, including Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the front-running candidate for his party's presidential nomination.

After the roll call most of the senators left the floor. Many, however, stopped to congratulate the Republican leader, Everett M. Dirksen, and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the bill's floor manager, for their bipartisan efforts in driving the bill through.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield remained on the floor to announce the legislative program for next week when the Senate plunges into a massive backlog of work. Then, although most senators were gone, he kept the Senate in session long enough to pass 50 minor bills.

Ban On Discrimination The bill breaks new ground for federal civil rights law, at least in modern times, in three respects. It would ban racial discrimination in:

Hotels and hotels, eating places, gasoline stations and entertainment centers, and some other places of public accommodation.

All phases of employment, including hiring, firing, promotions and union membership.

Federally assisted state and local programs. Federal funds would be cut off if the discrimination is not ended.

In addition the bill would greatly increase the power of the attorney general.

Youths Battle Lansing Police

LANSING (AP) — Some 700 taunting Negro youths hurled rocks at 130 police Friday night in a four-hour melee that erupted after officers were called to break up an argument at a house party.

Two policemen were injured, including Chief Charles Stragier, who was hit in the side of his face with a cinder block and was treated at a hospital.

Officers sealed off a six-block area on the city's west side until the mob's fury spent itself. About 12 persons were arrested, Stragier said.

"Rocks and bricks were flying—I know because I caught one—and you could hear explosives," Stragier said. "I think some shotguns were being fired out of windows, but nobody got hit that we know of."

Helmets officers carried clubs, but did not use them, as they moved in on the area. Stragier had ordered all off-duty Lansing policemen to report on an emergency basis to the area.

In addition, state police, Ingham County sheriff's officers, Mason police, Michigan State University police and the Lansing Fire Department were called.

Gale Flips New Aircraft Here At Esky Airport

High winds in the Escanaba area Friday did considerable damage to a new Cessna Skyhawk aircraft, valued at $13,000 owned by Jon Thorin Aviation at the Municipal Airport.

Thorin said that the plane, just delivered this week, was being put in a hangar to shelter it from the weather when strong gusts of wind lifted it over on its back and threw it across a fence. It was righted with a crane.

There is no estimate of loss yet because of possibility of hidden damage. The plane was insured.

Winds were recorded at 65 m. p. h. at the airport and gusts were estimated to be up to 80 m. p. h.

A high temperature of 92 degrees was reached yesterday afternoon, with a low recorded last night of 42, a difference of 44 degrees in 14 hours.

Storm Downstate

Violent thunderstorms swept through southern Lower Michigan Friday night. They did widespread damage, were blamed indirectly for at least two deaths and caused several injuries.

Some of the storms bore marble-sized hail and wind gusts up to 77 miles an hour took down power lines and trees and shattered windows at numerous points.

A six-county area in the southeastern tip of the state was worst hit. Fire and police department switchboards were swamped with emergency calls.

Larry Staples, 24, of Garden City, and an unidentified Detroit man were killed by storm-felled power lines.

Detroit Receiving Hospital said five persons were treated for injuries suffered in a storm which struck the Motor City shortly before midnight.

Small Tornado

What some described as a small tornado touched down in St. Clair Shores, between Detroit and Mount Clemens, doing extensive damage to three houses and snapping off a number of trees.

The U. S. Weather Bureau reported a tornado funnel was sighted over Lake Erie.

A falling tree in St. Clair Shores crashed on a passing convertible. The windshield was smashed and a limb went through the top, but a young couple inside suffered only minor cuts. They were freed by firemen.

Kensington Metropolitan Park near Brighton, was among spots reporting marble-sized hail.

The Jackson-Napoleon-Clark Lake area reported winds up to 53 miles an hour. 2,000 telephones knocked out and power to 500 homes disrupted. Two children were struck by cars in Jackson at the height of the storm there and 1,500 chickens lost the roof from over their heads on a farm near Napoleon.

Two Electrocuted

Six tents were blown down and an estimated $2,300 damage done at Temperance, in southern Monroe County, which was holding an annual community festival. Donald Myers of Samaria was hit in the face by a flying board there.

Staples was electrocuted in Garden City while trying to cut a power line that had fallen across a street. An electrician at the Chrysler missile plant in Sterling Township, police said Staples volunteered to cut the line. He was the father of three and his wife is expecting a fourth child.

Police said the unidentified Detroit man who was killed ignored their warnings and touched a fallen power line in an alley. He was an elderly Negro about 68 years of age.

Universities To Aid Hannahville Job Problem

The Upper Peninsula Field Services Committee, which represents the four state universities serving the Upper Peninsula, reviewed the services being given to the Hannahville Indians here Friday with Howard Potter of Ashland, Wis., Bureau of Indian Affairs officer in this district.

The review at the House of Ludington by the committee, which helps shape the services of the universities it represents in the U. P., indicated that their future activities at Hannahville will probably offer:

1. Continuation of Michigan State University's program, already underway for two years, to upgrade the basic skills of the Indians in agriculture, home economics, woods industry and other fields.
2. An Indian crafts industry instruction program by University of Michigan Extension. The reservation has some craft, mostly basketry, but could develop a considerable crafts business for employment of its people if they desired it.
3. A Northern Michigan University job training program for members of the tribe and particularly for its young people.
4. A Michigan Technological University job training program, especially in woods industry employment.

Leaving Reservations

Dr. A. W. Mowery, MSU extension director in the U. P., and chairman of the committee, said that Mrs. Loa Whitfield, a former state program leader in Extension in Ohio, had been added to the U. P. staff and is aiding with the Indian project, to which Miss Ingrid Tervonen, Delta County home demonstration agent, has devoted much time with substantial success.

The Hannahville Reservation embraces more than 3,000 acres of federal lands in northern Menominee County in the Wisconsin area and currently has 167 Indians resident there in 35 families. They are Potawatomi, settled there by the government in the last century and the colony population remains fairly static, although Potter said that the Indian population in the Lake States is rising with an average family of five members and with more young people leaving the reservations.

Potter said that the Bureau of Indian Affairs regards solution to the Indian problem in this area as consisting of: Going to the Indians place of residence and helping them upgrade their skills and abilities and find employment, and also to teach them to spend their income well. The motivation is to increase the desire for a better life.

Sociological View

The committee invited Dr. Christopher Sower, MSU sociologist and anthropologist, to put today's American Indians in historic perspective. He said that when Extension started a century ago it taught ruralists farmers. Soviet Russia boasted that it could lead the backward nations to a quicker transformation to modernity and it produced manufacturing manpower in one generation but failed to produce an effective modern agriculture.

Sigmund Freud taught that the impact of the influences of childhood could not be overcome in adulthood, but modern psychology knows better. The welfare client tends to produce welfare dependent children rather than productive people, but even the alcoholic ("a result, not a cause") can be identified very early today, like the prospective school dropout. Mothers have an interest in their children that can be built on to turn them from family traditions of dependency into new outlooks of productivity, said Dr. Mowery.

The effort at Indian crafts revival involves some social imagery of a return to a simple culture not much respected by the whites, when the need is for upgrading respect, but an efficient crafts production could tend to do this.

Indian Industry

At Couderay, Wis., Indians have repaid $15,000 of a $20,000 government loan that put them in the cranberry business, said Potter, and at Redfield they are launched on a garment making project that produces hospital gowns. A similar project is being considered for the women at Hannahville.

Efforts to aid the Hannahville Indians increase their income and living levels have usually debated whether it could be accomplished by more integration of the group into society or by building up the colony. The reservation has been stripped of merchantable timber and its housing is generally deteriorated and subject of a student rehabilitation project this summer of the American Indian Foundation headed by Rev. Robert S. Shan, Jr., of Grosse Ile, Mich.

Representing the universities were Dr. Mowery, Charles Folio, Escanaba, University of Michigan Extension director in the U. P.; Ralph Noble, director of continuing education, Michigan Tech, Houghton; Dr. Claud Bosworth, vice president, public services, Northern Michigan University, and James Gooch, MSU coordinator of adult education.

Protection For Flooring Asked

Congressman Victor A. Knox (R-Mich.), has introduced in Congress a bill designed to equalize tariffs on maple, beech and birch hardwood flooring between the United States and Canada. The bill was referred to the House Committee on Ways and Means which handles all tariff legislation, and of which Knox is a member.

Canada presently has a duty rate of 12½ per cent on all imports of this type flooring into that country, while the U.S. rate on imports into this country is 4 per cent. The Knox Bill would raise the U.S. rate to Canada's 12½ per cent level until such time as Canada reduces its duty. If Canada does lower its tariff without the imposition of other import restrictions (such as quotas or subsidies), the President would be directed to reduce the U.S. duty by a comparable amount.

"This legislation is badly needed," Knox said, "because since 1948 domestic shipments of this type flooring from the Northern U.S. industry have, with the exception of a few years, been rapidly declining. On the other hand, imports of this flooring from Canada have pretty well stabilized at about four million board feet per year. This indicates that any decrease in the use of hardwood flooring in this country has been shouldered by our domestic industry, and the greatest portion of the burden has been borne by the producers in Northern Michigan and Wisconsin."

"The need for this legislation is made more urgent by the fact that our domestic hardwood flooring industry has received no help from the Administration in its tariff negotiations, nor does any help appear to be in sight from this source. At the same time, Canadian flooring has continued to be imported into the U.S. and sold at lower prices than our domestic product. Domestic production lines which could more than fill U.S. consumer demand remain dormant or only in partial use, with resulting financial loss to firms and drastic curtailment of job opportunities."

Knox said that Michigan-Wisconsin producers are unable to develop Canadian markets due to the higher Canadian tariff, even though some of the Canadian hardwood flooring users are in closer proximity to U.S. producers than to Canadian producers.

Ore Centennial Shaping As Big July 11 Festival

The Escanaba Ore Centennial Committee meeting at 7 p. m. Monday in City Hall will button up much of the planning for the celebration here on Saturday, July 11, which will honor the Chicago & North Western Railway.

Board Chairman Ben W. Heineman and President Clyde Fitzpatrick of the North Western will head the list of dignitaries who will attend the celebration.

Monday's meeting will prepare the program for dedication of the Ore Centennial plaque to be placed on a large piece of hematite ore in Ludington Park at the municipal dock.

The parade on Saturday afternoon and the public banquet in the evening in the commons of the new Escanaba Area High School are highlights of the program, but there will be many other phases of the celebration. The Senior Citizens Committee of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce is selling tickets to the dinner and they may also be purchased at $3.75 each at the Chamber of Commerce building. Early purchases will be appreciated by the committee as they help the planning.

There will be an evening band concert in Ludington Park, wearing of Escanaba Centennial clothing for the Ore Centennial, the Coast Guard cutter Sundew will be at the municipal dock for public inspection; a bomb salute and a Venetian Night parade by the Escanaba Yacht Club fleet, historical displays at the Delta County Historical Society Museum at Sand Point and in many of the Escanaba stores, a blowing of whistles at 10 a.m.

to signal the start of the celebration.

A luncheon for visiting industrialists will be held at the House of Ludington at noon to welcome the city's Ore Centennial guests.

The dinner in the evening will have Carl Hogberg, a native of Escanaba who is vice president — raw materials of U. S. Steel Corp. at Pittsburgh as the main speaker with responses from both Heineman and Fitzpatrick. John A. Lemmer will be master of ceremonies.

Wesley Hansen is general chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements; Forrest Henslee is dinner chairman and Claude Tobin and Paul Snyder are cochairmen of the parade committee.

New Scholarship Program Popular

LANSING (AP)—Applications for Michigan's new competitive state scholarship program, approved by the legislature this year, are pouring in at the rate of about 600 a day.

The Michigan Higher Education Assistance Authority, which is administering the program, said more than 2,000 applications for scholarships have been received since the program started less than two weeks ago.

The deadline for applying for one of the 1,000 scholarships available this year is July 1, for students who have taken one of four qualifying exams administered in schools since Sept. 1, 1963.

"The response has been exceptionally good," said Dr. John Porter, executive director of the authority, "especially considering the short time we have had to implement the program and let Michigan youth know of the scholarship availabilities for the next fall."

Under the law passed by the legislature, some $50,000 is appropriated to support scholarships for Michigan college youth needing financial aid.

The program calls for not less than three state scholarships for residents of each of Michigan's legislative districts, the rest to be awarded on an at-large basis.

Each scholarship will provide $800 per year for tuition and fees, with individual scholarships averaging about $500, Dr. Porter said.

Eligibility requirements include three years of Michigan residence, a standing in the upper half of the high school class and financial need. The scholarships may be used at any accredited Michigan institution of higher learning, public or private.

City Police ticketed Peter W. Klug, 18, of 309 North 20th St., Saturday for speeding and defacing his driver's license.

Escanaba Fire Dept. answered a call at 1:35 p. m. Friday at 512 North 21st Street. It was a vacant lot grass fire with no damage resulting.

The Northland College, Ashland, Wis. and dean's lists released today, which honors students with a "B" grade average for the third quarter includes Kenneth C. Swanson, Escanaba.

Daylight In The Woods

"The Forests of the Upper Peninsula," Lynn Sandberg of L'Anse told Governor Romney's Conference on Upper Peninsula Economic Opportunity at Marquette this week "are not exhausted. They have fiber materials, small sawlogs and veneer logs which if properly supported and developed could support four to five times the jobs we now have from them."

Here's a 14-karat prospect for industrial development in the Upper Peninsula. Sandberg, the woodlands manager for Celotex at L'Anse, was moderator of the panel which discussed the potentials of U. P. wood industry at the Governor's Conference at Northern Michigan University.

The findings of this section of the conference were a star item, rivaling the optimism created in mineral industry by recent gains on the Marquette and Menominee ranges and the Copper Country.

The findings:

1. "Rapid advances are being made in preparing detailed forest inventory information needed to point local supplies of raw material."

Lack of knowledge about the wood resources helped keep a plywood operation out of the western U. P. last year.

2. "Labor's attitude is changing to permit establishment of competitive rates that are lower than the mine and automotive rates previously prevailing in the area."

This has been a not much talked about impediment to wood enterprise in mining areas. Wood industry hasn't been able to pay mine wages and has tended to avoid areas where the dominant wage scale.

3. "Stumpage had priced itself out of the market in many cases and is being realigned to make it competitive."

Stumpage prices are higher in the U. P. than in the Lower Peninsula and the Lower Peninsula has had more capital investment in wood industry in recent years than in the U. P.

4. "Effluent disposal costs (of pulp and paper mills) are a problem in the U. P."

The Michigan Water Resources Commission and Michigan Health Department have been working on the problem for years; have made headway. The U. S. Department of Health, Education & Welfare's Public Service is now cracking down on mill pollution and the whole process of reducing pollutants in public waters will probably be speeded. The sensible course is to gentle the corrective process so that mills are not put out of business and there should be special concern that the federal government's zeal does not clobber the Lake States paper industry and give some other area a competitive advantage.

5. "Power costs are being adjusted."

Reductions are needed. Paper makers say they're a major factor retarding growth of the industry in the U. P.

6. "Remanufacturing of rough forest products (like lumber) into finished products is in the beginning stages. Several firms are interested in Northern Michigan locations."

The quickest way to restore and enlarge remanufacturing enterprises in the U. P. is to get maximum allowable harvest of the resource in concentrated extractive industry. This is not being done now; the U. P. has surplus wood in some species.

7. "In land ownership, multiple use of forest lands is necessary for reproduction. Setting aside non-tax-paying, non-productive areas for exclusive playground use must be avoided."

The resource can also be enlarged to produce more wood for industry, more value for the land and more recreation, if it is managed on small private ownerships, but this is hard as the dickens to do because most such owners just don't give a heck.

8. "Marked changes in community attitude, appearance and cooperation are slowly taking place and must progress further to attract industry."

This discreet language is hinting at labor rates, tax rates, community support of industry.

It is a professional, excellent rundown with many more plus factors than negative factors. It means that the U. P. can make a lot of wood industry jobs in the next few years if it works hard at it.

Finding The Way

We Are Wanted

By RALPH W. LOEW D. D.

These are the days of Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance," the stately processions, the dignified seniors, proud parents and concerned young families. These are the days of the graduates.

Suddenly young persons are aware that some major influences have brought them to this achievement, shaping their ideas, giving form to their philosophy, setting something of the pace for the future.

At one such college convocation the speaker asked the 3,000 graduates from the various schools of disciplines to stand up. They did. Then he asked them to be seated. They were. At which he is reported to have pointed out how quickly they obeyed his words and how susceptible they are to words and influences that are bargaining them every day.

The poet Auden once wrote of youth as that area of life just waiting anxiously for something to happen.

"To be young means To be all on edge, to be held waiting in A packed lounge for a personal call From Long Distance, for the low voice that Defines one's future. The fears we know Are not of knowing. Will tonight bring us Some awful order Keep a hardware store In a small town Teach science for life to Progressive girls? It is getting late.

Shall we ever be asked for? Are we simply Not wanted at all?"

This is the faith that God is God, the Reality of our realities, not to be identified with our own personal or national values. God is the God of judgment as well as comfort, of righteousness as well as loving kindness.

If we are young enough to be on edge, we can learn to listen and to wait.

As the threshold generations of history have had to understand, one thinks it out to the ends of the mind and then finds God speaking NOW. In the understanding of the sanctity of the human being that nagging question is answered. We're wanted!

The fish was 7 feet, five inches in length and weighed 179 pounds. It was caught 17 miles from port.

Miss Vendela Sundquist, a teacher in the Barr School, is about to realize a cherished ambition. She is leaving late in June for Europe and will spend two weeks in Sweden, two in Norway and two in Denmark.

Tomorrow will mark the 75th anniversary of Bethany Lutheran Church in Escanaba, and in deference to the fact that the church started as one in which the Swedish language was almost exclusively used, one of the sessions will follow the old tradition. The Rev. C. Albert Lund, pastor of the congregation for many years, will preach the Swedish sermon. Rev. Gustav Lund, present pastor, has arranged for several special meetings, all in English for the remainder of the observances.

tel Corp. say they spent about $500,000 to put the Sheraton-Cleveland Hotel in shape for the governors. Each had a newly decorated suite, done in the style of his state. One item in Kansas' Gov. John Anderson's room was an old-fashioned, pedestal-type telephone. "I wonder," Anderson mused, "if the folks in Cleveland think this is the newest kind of telephone we have back in Kansas?"

Coping with crowded elevators is a tedious chore for ordinary folk; one would imagine governors have no such problem. Not so. Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania spent eight impatient minutes on the hotel's mezzanine floor waiting for a lift. Then he walked downstairs to the lobby and waited another five minutes. "Wonder if there's a freight elevator around?" he muttered. Finally, an elevator was available and, last seen, Scranton was squeezed to the rear of a cab with a photographer's camera pressed firmly into his stomach.

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama says he doesn't know whether he'll attend the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City, N. J., in August. "I'm not sure I'll be able to get through the picket lines," he explains.

For a brief second, Michigan's Gov. George Romney sounded as if he were going to borrow one of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's well-worn phrases: "the mainstream of Republican thought."

Meeting the press at the Governors' Conference, Romney got as far as "mainst..." and stopped. He switched to "main highway."

A Romney aide turned to a listening newsman and said: "We go by land instead of by sea."

Aides to Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania tried to keep up a cheerful front after the collapse of the brief Scranton presidential boom touched off by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. Craig Truax, Pennsylvania Republican state chairman, answered the telephone like this: "Hello, hello, hello. We're still here."

William Keisling, the governor's executive assistant, smilingly told a visitor to the governor's suite: "Well, at least we've earned a footnote in Teddy White's next book."

His reference was to Theodore White's forthcoming sequel to the 1960 best-seller, "The Making of a President."

New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, accustomed to almost any sort of question, was asked this gem at a news conference: "Governor, former Vice President Nixon has said Governor Scranton would make a good vice-presidential running mate for Senator Goldwater. And Governor Scranton says Nixon would make a good running mate for Goldwater. What do you think?" Rockefeller just shrugged.

Chips And Splinters

Contributions To Chips Welcomed

Harold and Beatrice Putnam, authors of that finest of Upper Peninsula picture books, "North to Adventure in Michigan's Upper Peninsula," are in the U. P. again, taking pictures for their speaking tours, and arranging sales outlets for their book. They are the best bargain that the Upper Peninsula has ever had in promotion; they tell outsiders about the Peninsula at their own expense and make a living at it.

They know the Upper Peninsula better than most Peninsulans, having cased nearly all of it in their quest of beautiful pictures. The Northville Record said recently of a color slide presentation and narration by the Putnams: "Putnam's polished photography draws 'ohs' and 'ahs' from his Woman's Club audience with his spectacular tour."

"The color of the Grand Sable Dunes," said Mrs. Putnam "remind you of the Pacific Coastline. This is our newest discovery and enthusiasm. We have to be careful about having 'favorites' in the Upper Peninsula or local pride may get ruffled."

"It's 270 feet from the top of the Grand Sable Dunes down to the level of Lake Superior. This was a sandbar created by Lake Nipissing, a glacial lake that preceded Lake Superior by thousands of years."

"There's just a dirt road that leads out from Grand Marais. The sign says 'To the Log Slide' and you come to a scene as spectacular as the coast of Oregon. Grand Sable Light stands white and tall out at the tip of the forest on the left, and there's an eroded area down through the forest and to the right there's a great sweep of dunes rising high above Lake Superior."

"A small stream runs out of Sable Lake, formed by the dunes, into Lake Superior. It cascades down into Lake Superior in a series of waterfalls. You have to drive through a farmer's field and go up and down a series of banks to get to the waterfalls."

Asked what people's reaction is to their U. P. slide presentation, Mrs. Putnam said "The typical reaction is amazement."

"People say 'I didn't know Michigan had scenery like that.'"

Putnam said "The Upper Peninsula has some blank pages for us. We're going to spend some time this summer in the Huron Mountains. We've been coming to the Upper Peninsula for 10 years, and sometimes four or five times a year. We're helping to pay off the bridge debt."

"A lot of people have never considered coming here for a vacation trip," said Mrs. Putnam "and its possibilities come as a revelation. They've been going east or to the Rockies or some other well advertised areas."

"What we like to hear them say is 'I must go up there next year,' and many of them tell us about it later. The reaction is good."

"People who read our book write many letters to us asking where to go and what to see."

"We know one woman in a family that does quite a bit of traveling and she lists the motels or restaurants that have signs that disfigure the roadside and they never stop at such places. The Soo has become a billboard jungle," said Mrs. Putnam. "And it's worse around Escanaba."

"We think that billboards are one of the evils that go with a city and we've come to accept it in Detroit, but we expect to see countryside when we come to the Upper Peninsula. We want to see scenery. That's what you have to sell. And when they're overdone they defeat their purpose; you

Ann Landers

Don't Keep Home Beatings Secret

Dear Ann Landers: Your reply to "Daughter of Sorrow" was good. She was the girl who for years was beaten unmercifully by her mother. Through therapy the girl was able to forgive her mother instead of spending her life filled with hatred and bitterness.

Psychiatry isn't the only answer, Ann. My story was similar to hers—only worse.

I am 19 now, and the first nine years of my life were hell. Dad was the town drunk. I'm sure he turned to the bottle because it was the only way he could escape from mother's screaming and temper tantrums. My sisters and I lived in constant fear of beatings, filthy language and humiliation before friends.

When I was in the 4th grade I passed out in school. For 20 minutes I could not be revived. The principal and school nurse took off my blouse. They found welts and bruises all over my back. When they questioned me I told them everything.

The next day the police and welfare authorities investigated our home life. My sister and I were placed in a foster home and my father, with the help of a clergyman and A.A., straightened out. Mother was put in a mental institution where she died two years ago.

If children who are beaten by their parents would tell the school authorities they might not need psychiatric care later. Will you tell them, please?—SPARED

Dear Spared: I do tell them. Perhaps you are not aware that the advice which appears in the newspapers is only a small part of the service we give. Every week thousands of readers who send self-addressed stamped envelopes get personal advice in the mail.

Grain Shortage Noted In Feeding

Alger County had 15 herds on test for May and 385 cows were tested. Cows averaged 30.3 pounds of milk each day and 1.14 pounds of butterfat. The county average for butterfat was 3.77 per cent — .04 per cent higher than the state average.

Feed cost per 100 pounds of milk produced ranged from a low of $1.50 to a high of $2.36, with an average of $1.93 as compared with the state average of $1.51. Pounds of grain fed daily per cow ranged from 4.3 to 16.9 with an average of 9.4 contrasted with 12.1 for all cows on test in the state. This reflects the shortage of grains in Alger County.

Future Homes Under Water?

Women who have been asking what the home of the future will be like might consider a more likely question: where will it be — on land, sea or in the air.

For all we know, instead of heckling the man of the house to mow the grass, we may be asking him at an underwater retreat to please get busy and weed the coral — it's scratching our newest Paris-designed skin-diving suit.

An underwater home may not be so far fetched as visitors to the New York World's Fair may feel when they encounter such exhibits as Futurama. The modern aqua home, space-wheeled vehicles, aquaplanes, three-legged houses in the Antarctic and cities built in craters with people living on the side of cliffs may have been some designer's brainstorm, but some of the ideas have begun to happen.

An article, "At Home in the Sea," in the recent issue of National Geographic Magazine tells about five French ocean-aquas who lived for a month in a submerged colony on a Red Sea reef. What's more, the wife of Capt. Jacques-Yves Cousteau, author of the article, dropped down to Starfish House to spend a week with her husband.

The house consists of four arms with kitchen, laboratory, dark room, lavatory, sleeping quarters, living and dining room with showers beneath which is a sharkproof grille. The house is on five stilts, 36 feet below in the Red Sea was filled with compressed air by a hose.

Entertainment? They have that too. The group turns off inside lights, puts on outside lamps and watches the piscatorial delights. They were spellbound as a thick school of sardinas came into view and executed a dance with the precision of the Rockettes, writes Capt. Cousteau.

His wife, Simone, wore the latest foam-rubber diving tunic designed by a fashionable Paris couturier. She would do it and her aqua lung to take an evening "stroll" with some of the oceanauts outside the station. They'd take off from an open sea hatch, protected by the steel grille enclosures from sneak shark attacks.

Other structures made up a colony — a diving saucer's hanger on stilts, tool sheds for underwater gear, a deep cabin and a research ship.

Though this was a research project, it could be that Americans would take to an under-sea weekend villa like fish. Skin diving is a popular sport now and we are always restless to explore new ideas.

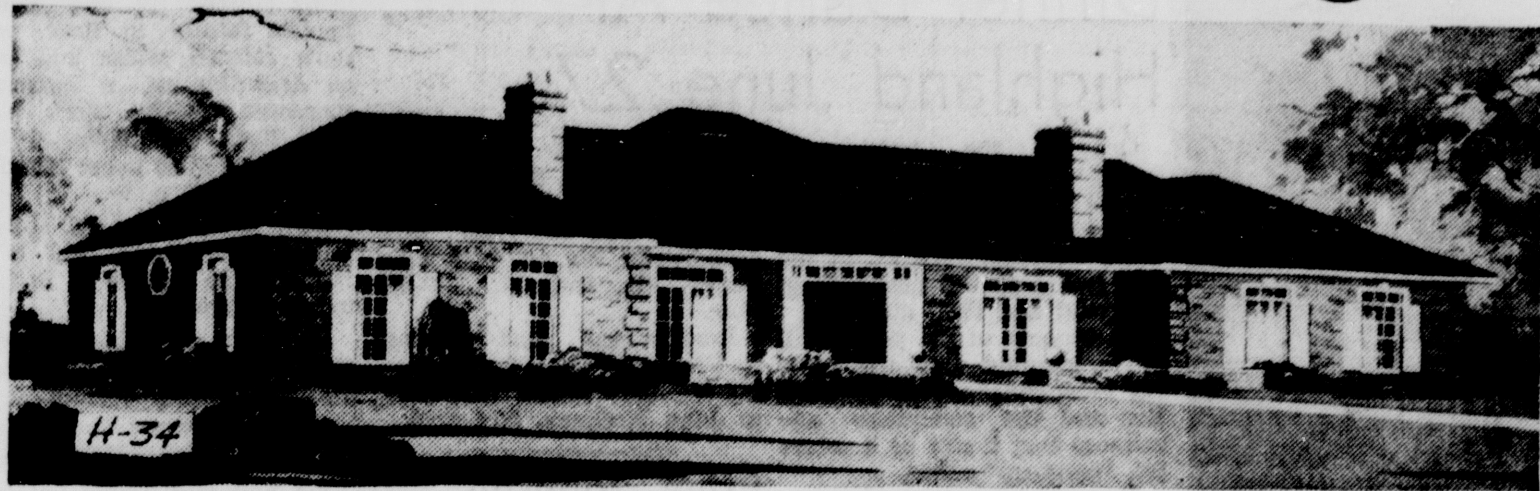

Output Doubled On Half Dollars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury sources said Thursday that the Mint has doubled production of Kennedy half dollars in the past few months. By June 30, 90 million of the coins bearing the likeness of the late President will have been minted — the amount originally planned for the entire year.

The new goal for 1964 is 150 million. Some officials believe almost all will be scooped up by collectors, souvenir hunters and speculators.

House of the Week

French Provincial Design

LUXURIOUS AND REGAL: This grand one-story home contains three bedrooms, two full and two half baths, a study, two fireplaces, and all the specialty rooms necessary for gracious living. It features authentic French Provincial design. The architect is Rudolph A. Matern.

There is a certain ageless magnificence about the style of architecture originated in the French provinces during the 17th and 18th centuries.

We call the style French Provincial, and it seems to gain by adaptation to mid-20th century living practices. All the formal splendor remains, and modern family living needs are satisfied as well.

Today's House of the Week, design H-34 in the series, is a stately one-story designed by architect Rudolph A. Matern. It contains three bedrooms, two full and two half baths, a study, two fireplaces, and various specialty rooms in a total living area of 2,151 square feet. It's a house, in short, for families who are at the stage where they want to settle in one home and stay put.

The exterior features all the hallmarks of authentic French Provincial design—deep windows with transoms, shutters, French doors, double front entry, paneled doors with a transom and keystone, and a well-enclosed formal entrance.

French decor is carried inside by an octagonal foyer floored in marble with moulded walls and ceiling. The splayed ceiling is 10 feet high, adorned with a large chandelier.

The reception hall forms an axis creating a formal balance on both interior and exterior, typical of this style or architecture. The well-camouflaged garage, with a side entry, provides one of the balancing wings in front.

The various components of the house—wings, center section, roof line, front courtyard, chimney—all are in ideal proportion and harmony. Over-all dimensions of the house are 85'4" wide by 41'6" deep.

Additional Details
An example of how this historic design is perfectly attuned to modern, gracious living is the lounge, a specialty room just beyond the reception hall. It can be used as an overflow from the living room—either the informal "family" living room or the formal one—or it can serve as a room in itself, an intimate spot for small gatherings.

Right off the reception hall, through the alcove flanked by coat closet and lavatory-powder room, is a private study, complete with fireplace, which surely will prove to be one of the most popular rooms in the house.

The formal living room is truly done in the grand manner 13'10" by 21' in size, with a massive fireplace and large connecting arch to the dining room. The living room connects both with the lounge and with the covered rear porch behind the garage.

The kitchen is well situated as a housekeeping core. Its work area is efficiently U-shaped with a back counter for added counter and cupboard space, a second sink, and a pass-through to the lounge. Though the kitchen adjoins both the dining room and the informal living room, any traffic between those rooms through the kitchen still won't interfere with the work area because of the U-design.

A second living area lavatory is ideally located near the informal living room and kitchen and also convenient to the rear terrace and backyard.

The bedroom wing is nicely laid out with a minimum of hall space and a maximum of closet space. There are, in fact, two extra large linen closets; four closets in one family bedroom and five in the other; and a walk-in closet in the master bedroom which is large enough to be used as a dressing room as well.

Beauty Added By Courtyard

AP Newsfeatures

If Columbus and his sailors had stuck around these parts, we might now be living in Spanish-style houses with walled-in outdoors yards. And it wouldn't have been bad at all.

Besides the lord-of-the-manor feeling it can give to the owner of the smallest plot of land, a walled courtyard is just what American families need to keep humans in or out—which ever is more desirable.

Such an area was observed at the Spanish Pavilion at the New York World's Fair where an outer restaurant was planned within walls. There is nothing much to the tiny spot, one of three eating places in the fabulous building. But it has atmosphere, tranquility and a brightness that is contagious, all for the price of a cinder block, stucco covered wall and a few geraniums.

The yard, about 30 feet square, is enclosed by three walls about 10-feet high with an entrance on the fourth wall into the building. The cinder-block walls are coated with bright white stucco in a rough, textured finish.

A row of bright red geraniums seems to be growing right out of the wall at about the eight foot level. But this cheerful bit of charm, it develops, was accomplished by framing the area at that point with metal lathe, and lining it with a copper trough for the plants. Stucco was then put over lathe and cinderblock.

The floor is large two-foot squares of precast, unpainted concrete.

Overhead, a yellow and white wide-striped canvas lies flat. The canvas can be rolled back when desired. The yellow and white picks up the sunshine perfectly and illuminates the yard brightly, but not dazzlingly, picking up reflection from the bright white walls.

An eye-catching decorative note are the tinajas, enormous Spanish clay pots grouped in a corner.

Some variation of this courtyard idea could fit into almost any architectural scheme. It is a delightful outdoor dining place for the family and a good play-place for small children and teen-agers any time. It's just the right place for a summer party.

Though it would be particularly useful in any area which lacks backyard privacy, where lawn meets lawn, as in developments, it is made-to-order for contemporary houses. Color it pink, blue, yellow or whatever outside, or keep it all white, inside and out.

If the squared-off affect seems too modern for one's house, the wall could be embellished on top with masonry trimmings. American-style Arches, curves and peaked designs in finishing pieces could do the trick.

Baby Is Born In Traffic Jam

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Henry Cavanaugh found his way into—and finally out of—a freeway traffic jam, during which his wife presented him with a newborn son. A problem remained, however.

Who acted as midwife? A couple who delivered his wife, Christien, 34, of her baby during the traffic jam Thursday disappeared before he could learn their names.

They were later identified as Mr. and Mrs. Julian Blanco of nearby Azusa.

Cavanaugh's car had hit the rear of another vehicle as he was rushing his wife to the hospital — and the baby began to come.

Cavanaugh yelled for help. The Blancos, in a nearby car, responded.

They delivered the child, transferred mother and son to their car, drove down the center divider strip to an exit, and took them to a hospital.

Cavanaugh, 39, a construction worker, was left on the freeway to extricate his car.

Apple Crop May Set New Record

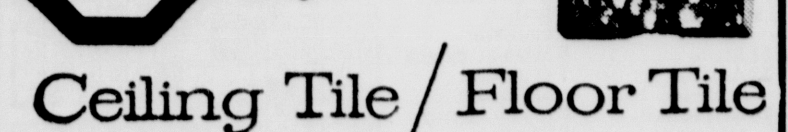

SPARTA (AP)—A 1964 bumper Michigan apple crop of about 18 million bushels, some two million more than in the all-time record harvest of 1961, is the "guesstimate" of area growers.

The annual "guesstimate" meeting was held here Wednesday night by the State Apple Commission.

Pitchers Falter As Tigers Poke Dozen Safeties

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, losers in four of their last five games, will send rookie Denny McLain against the mighty Minnesota Twins this afternoon.

The Twins bombed Tiger pitchers for four home runs Friday night in a 7-6 victory. McLain's pitching opponent will be Mudcat Grant, recently acquired from the Cleveland Indians to help bolster the sagging Twin pitching.

But for manager Charlie Dressen, whose team has been sagging both at bat and on the mound, there seems to be nothing much to do but jiggle the lineup and hope.

The Tigers got 12 hits last night but the pitching faltered. Starter Mickey Lolich gave up homers to Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison. Then his replacement, Larry Sherry, was touched for homers by Zoro Versalles and Tony Oliva.

This gave the Twins a 7-4 lead. The Tigers fought back when Jerry Lumpe drove home one run in the eighth, and Bill Freehan homered for another with one out in the ninth. But Don Demeter and Norm Cash were easy outs and it was all over.

The Tigers took a 4-1 lead early in the game. George Thomas and Dick McAuliffe singled in runs in the second and Freehan and Demeter drove in two more in the fifth with a single and a sacrifice fly, respectively. Lolich left the game in the sixth inning after Allison's two-run homer tied the score at 4-4. Sherry, tagged for two more homers in the three-run seventh, took the loss, his fourth in seven decisions.

The Tigers wind up the Minnesota series with a single game Sunday, then head for Kansas City for a three-game series.

Olson Whipped In Garden Shot

NEW YORK (AP)—Bobo Olson's face and words told the story of his decision defeat to Johnny Persol more eloquently than anything else.

His head was bowed and there were tears in his eyes as he sat on a table in his dressing room Friday night.

"I couldn't get off," he said. "I wanted to win so badly here. I wanted to look real good. I trained so hard I must have left it all in the gym. I was sluggish, real sluggish. I just couldn't put those combinations together. I'd like another shot at him."

It looks like he'll get the return crack at Persol in San Francisco's Kezar Pavilion, Aug. 28, San Francisco promoter Art Benjamin got a verbal offer from both fighters and assurance of the television time from Madison Square Garden officials.

The defeat, by majority decision, was a costly loss for the 35-year-old former middleweight champion from San Francisco. He had an unbeaten streak of eight and a victory would have iced a title fight in October with light-heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano.

This was Olson's first fight in New York since he was knocked out by light-heavyweight king Archie Moore in the third round nine years ago. And, like he said, he wanted to win so very much.

Only Persol, a fast 24-year-old New Yorker with ambitions of his own, wouldn't let him get off. The broadshouldered, narrow-waisted Persol dominated the action with a stinging left jab to the head and thumping rights to the ribs and stomach. He also scored solidly with hooks, right crosses and uppercuts.

Baltimore Regains Lead; Miller Stars

By The Associated Press

Stu (The Junk Man) Miller has been out collecting again. Stingy Stu went foraging against Boston Friday night and salvaged two more games for Baltimore, preserving 2-1 and 6-5 triumphs over the Red Sox that boosted the Orioles back into first place in the American League.

Baltimore now has been involved in 20 one-run ball games and won 18—an astonishing .900 record in the squeakers. And, at the tail-end of most of them, Miller has lumbered out of the bullpen with his assortment of easy-looking, impossible-to-hit pitches.

He made his 25th and 26th appearances of the season against the Red Sox and when the night was over, he had been involved in his 14th and 15th one-run games. The Orioles have won 13 of those and Miller has officially been credited with 11 saves.

A 36-year-old right-hander who set a league record by appearing in 71 games last season, Miller has an over-all earned run average of 1.54 this year. In those 15 squeakers, however, he has been somewhat stingier, allowing just one run.

While Miller was adding to his collection, former Baltimore reliever Wes Stock added to his amazing record, posting his 11th victory without a loss since July 12, 1962.

Acquired by Kansas City in a deal for catcher Charley Lau last Sunday, Stock stroked his first major league hit in a career that started in 1961 and received credit for a 5-4 victory over Washington. It was the A's seventh victory in nine games under new Manager Mel McGaha.

Elsewhere in the AL, Harmon Killebrew's 21st homer was one of four hit by the Minnesota Twins in a 7-6 victory over Detroit and Bobby Knoop singled in the winning run in the Los Angeles Angels' 2-1 triumph over Cleveland.

The New York Yankees and Chicago were rained out with the second-place White Sox dropping one game behind the Orioles.

The Orioles scored both their runs in the opener following an error by Ed Bressoud in the sixth. John Orsino's sacrifice fly and Boog Powell's single brought the runs in. Miller saved this one for Robin Roberts, 5-4.

Dick Brown supplied the firepower in the nightcap, hitting a two-run homer before capping a three-run, sixth-inning uprising with a run-scoring single. Miller saved this one for Chuck Estrada, 2-1. Dick Stuart and Tony Conigliaro homered for the Red Sox.

Rocky Colavito did most of the damage for the A's. In the top of the sixth, he threw Washington's Mike Brunley out at home plate, then came up with Kansas City trailing 3-2 in the bottom of the inning and hit a two-run homer, his 15th.

Stock wound up the three-run rally with a run-producing single, his first hit in 29 at-bats in the majors.

The Angels scored in the first when Len Green singled, stole second and scored on Willie Smith's single. Larry Brown's fifth-inning homer gave the Indians a tie.

Tommy Jacobs

Jacobs Takes Lead From Arnold Palmer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Where was Tommy Jacobs at 3 a.m.? Sleeping soundly? Or pacing the floor?

Dimpled Tommy tore up the Congressional Country Club course—the vaunted monster—with a record-tying 64 Friday and found himself one stroke in front of Arnold Palmer, the golfing colossus, at the halfway point of the U.S. Open.

That earned Jacobs, a handsome 29-year-old with wavy brown hair and a shy smile, a head-to-head playing spot with Palmer down the pressure-cooker stretch of 36 final holes today.

Jacobs had 136, four under par. Palmer, bidding for the grand slam of golf, had 137. He wants this title so bad he would disturb anybody's sleep.

Also, this Open is the 50th anniversary of the first one that Walter Hagen—the Palmer of his day—won in 1914, and had watchers wondering if Jacobs' might suffer the fate of some of Hagen's opponents.

There was the night, for example, when Hagen was still entertaining his admirers at 3 a.m., and was reminded that his opponent of the day was safely in bed.

"Yeah," the Haig agreed, "but he ain't sleeping."

If young Jacobs managed to nod off, visions of his dream round would settle his nerves. Shooting 64 in the U.S. Open—it has only been done once before—is a lot different than shooting 64 in the weekly what-chamacallit open.

"It would have been a 58 on any other golf course," said veteran E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, who played with Jacobs. "I still don't believe it. This course cannot be played in 64."

Jacobs capped the round with a putt that traveled a measured 60 feet, 5 inches into the cup for a birdie at the 18th. Harrison had some comment about that, too.

"Don't tell me that putt was only 60 feet," he said. "I'd like to buy some real estate from the man who measured it."

Jacobs had 72 the first round, while Palmer added a 69 to his opening 68. So far there have been four rounds under par 70—and Palmer has two of them.

No other player was under par 140 for the 7,053-yard course, longest ever used in the Open.

The field was cut to the low 30 scorers and ties. It took 150 to make it.

Bill Collins, making a comeback after a back operation, added a 71 to his opening 70 for 141 and third place.

Diane Mulhaupt Bride Today Of Edward Reid

Pink gladioli and white carnations graced the altar of St. Francis de Sales church for the wedding today of Diane Marie Mulhaupt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Mulhaupt, 520 Michigan Ave. and Edward Charles Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reid, Cooks.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. M. Scheringer performed the double ring ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass at 11 a. m.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie, featuring a chapel train, long tapered sleeves, alencon lace bodice with scalloped, bateau neckline trimmed with sequins. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was secured to a crown of silk organza forming a tiara trimmed with tiny seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Her maid of honor, Linda Talbot and bridesmaids, Michele LeBrasseur, friend of the bride and the bridegroom's sister, Mary Sue Reid, Cooks, wore identical sheath dresses with overskirts of silk organza, in yellow green and apricot, respectively. Matching headpieces and white accessories completed their costumes. Their bouquets were carnations and mums tinted to match their dresses.

Debbie Jo Mulhaupt, sister of the bride and Rose Ann Reid, sister of the bridegroom, were flower girls and wore dresses of silk organza, with puff sleeves and full skirts. Debbie's was apricot and Rose Ann's, green. Dore Mulhaupt, the bride's younger sister, was attired in a miniature bride's gown and carried a bouquet of roses similar to the bride's.

The bride is a graduate of Manistique High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Garden High School and is employed at Pontiac Motors, Pontiac.

Out of town guests were from California, Pontiac, Crystal Falls, West Branch, New Jersey and Munising.

The bride's mother chose a 3-piece sheath suit with which she wore green accessories, and a green tinted carnation. Mrs. Reid wore a dark blue ensemble with an all-white carnation corsage.

At 1 p. m., dinner was held and from 5 to 8 p. m., a reception for 300 will be held at the Cooks Town Hall, which is decorated in pink and white.

The bridal table will feature the traditional 4-tier wedding cake trimmed in pink and topped with a miniature bridal couple. Miss Jill Krause will cut the cake and Linda Thompson will be in charge of the wedding book.

The new Mrs. Reid will wear a pink 2-piece suit with white accessories for her wedding trip and the couple will reside at 161 North Johnson St., Pontiac.

Swedish Club Marks 30 Years

Midsummersnight, celebrated annually for the last 800 years in Sweden, will also be marked by the Gladstone Swedish Club today with Maypole dancing and all-day fun. The event will mark the 30th anniversary of the club.

In Sweden the celebration starts on June 21 and keeps its peak until June 23. It originally was a pagan night and was adapted as a Christian festival dedicated to St. John when Christianity came in.

Newly cut birch trees, a symbol of fruitfulness, frame every door in Sweden and a May Pole bound with fresh birch boughs and decorated with wreaths is raised in every town. The men, women, boys and girls sing and dance around the pole.

They sing about sowing and harvesting time, love and separation and courting and quarrelling. The dances illustrate the songs.

Bonfires are built and can be seen from all over the countryside. The fires are a carryover from the fires lit to the Viking's Balder, Lord of Life, for whom the original pagan festivals were celebrated.

The festival is celebrated on the night on which the sun reaches its highest point in the sky. The dances and festivities have become so famous that tourists from everywhere crowd to see them, however the event still remains uncommercialized.

The celebration in Gladstone tonight will be reminiscent of these traditional Swedish festivals, with singing, and dancing around the May Pole.

The pole will be erected in Van Cleve Park in Gladstone at 4:30 p. m. and the public is invited to take part. Following the pole raising and a memorial tree planting ceremony members of the Swedish Club will go to the Dutch Mill in Rapid River for dinner and dancing.

Formosa Plane Crash Kills 53; Many Americans

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A Nationalist Chinese airliner with 48 passengers — many of them reported to be Americans — crashed in central Formosa tonight, Nationalist police said. Sketchy reports reaching Taipei said there were no survivors.

The plane, owned by the Civil Air Transport (CAT), had a crew of five.

Police said the plane, a twin-engine C46, crashed 12 miles north of Taichung shortly after takeoff on the final leg of a flight from the Pescadores to Taipei.

Lakeshore Bill Is In Freezer

MUNISING — Inquiries in Washington about the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore project sponsored by Senator Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.), indicate that no hearings on the proposal by the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs are scheduled or planned in the near future.

There is no House bill on the project, only Senator Hart's bill in the Senate, and indications here are that nothing will be done on it until after the Nov. 3 election, as the project has some political itch powder in it.

The project is generally favored but its specifics are under public scrutiny and some criticism as it proposes to take away part of the area's industrial forest with no compensating consideration for industry's wood supply.

No exchange of federal government lands in the area for private lands is favored by government officials.

Fire Destroys Area Cottage

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed a wood frame cottage at the Bay View location, two blocks south of the Terrace, late Friday afternoon. The cottage was owned by Carl T. Olson of Chaisson.

The Escanaba Fire department, the county tank truck, and a Gladstone fire truck responded to the call at 4:55 p.m. and battled the blaze for an hour. The cottage was not occupied at the time, but some of Olson's personal belongings were in it.

House Leaders Predict Quick OK On Monday

schools and public facilities such as parks and libraries and could assist individuals in a wide variety of cases brought to obtain the equal protection of the laws.

An underlying theme of the bill is a shift to federal court injunctions as a principal method of enforcement of civil rights. This involves the tacit assumption it is hard to get convictions under criminal statutes.

Voting Rights Cleared

The measure would also broaden two previous acts on voting rights, establishing among other things that an applicant to register is presumed literate if he has a 6th - grade education; extend the Civil Rights Commission to 1968, and set up a community relations service to try to help in solving racial discrimination disputes.

As sent back to the House the bill contains more than 100 Senate changes but preserves the broad framework of the legislation passed by that branch 290 to 130.

The Senate version appears certain to become the law, perhaps within two weeks, because House leaders say they expect to accept the revisions. Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said he is confident the bill will be in the President's hands by July 4.

Leaders said they believe Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., a bitter foe of the bill, could delay it only about eight days. Thus the final vote could come on June 30 or July 1.

WALLACE COMMENTS

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama called Senate passage of the civil rights bill "a sad day for individual liberty and freedom."

Dr. Martin Luther King, Negro integration leader, hailed it as "a lasting tribute to the late John F. Kennedy."

The bill's passage Friday brought gloom to Southern opponents and joy to integration leaders and moderates.

"It will bring practical relief to the Negro in the South and give the Negro in the North a psychological boost that he sorely needs," said King, in St. Augustine, Fla., for an integration crusade. King said Negroes would spend the summer testing compliance with the law and that St. Augustine would be a good place to start.

Wallace, a determined opponent of the bill and avowed candidate for president, predicted that Americans would remove from office those responsible for its passage. "I predict that the American people will rise up in indignation when they realize the awful consequences of this legislation," he said.

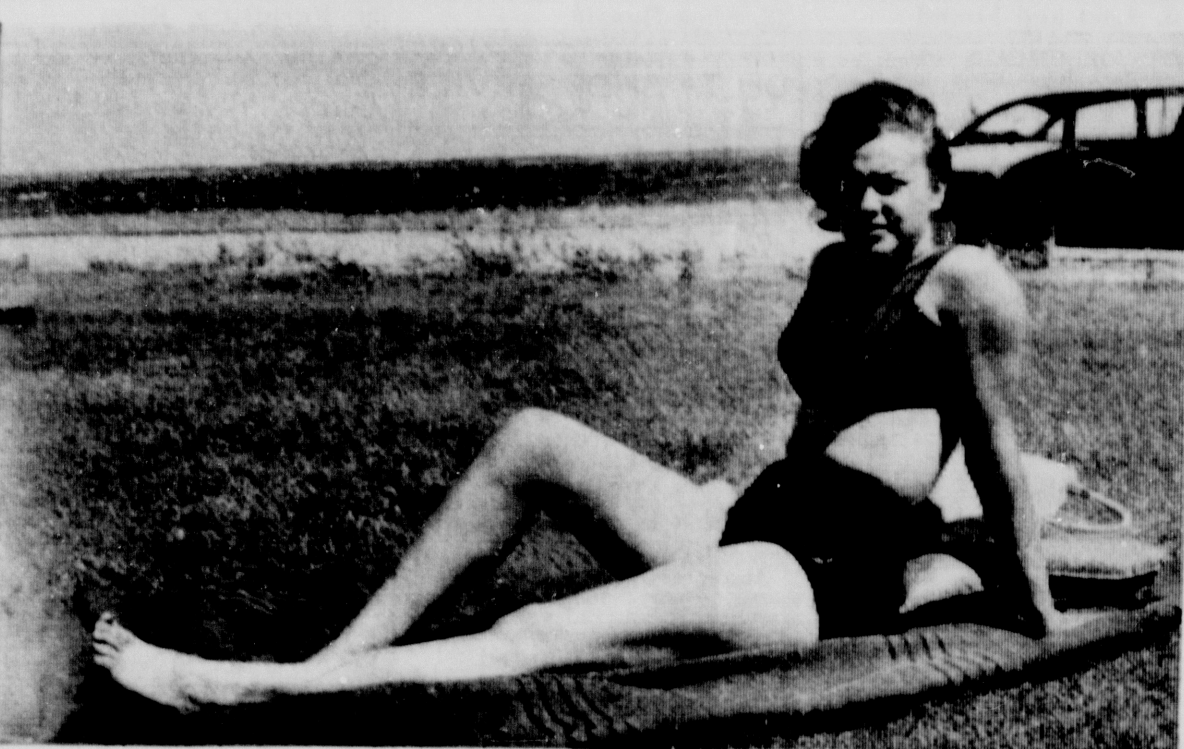

Gov. Farris Bryant of Florida said he had hoped the Senate would be more temperate. "It seems to me they have done a great injury to national unity," he said.

Austin Stormberg, chairman of the 1909 E.H.S. Class Reunion to be held here July 1, points an error in a notice he reported to the Press about Rear Admiral Rintoul Whitney's football career at the Escanaba High School.

"Through error it was stated in the account of Admiral Whitney's death," said Stormberg, that "Rint" Whitney captained the 1907 Escanaba High School state championship football team," write Stormberg. "This was not correct. The captain of that team was Harry Compher, Class of 1908, who played center. His team won every game on its schedule."

"Rint" Whitney, who played left tackle on that same team, was captain the following year, the 1908 team, a team, which likewise won all of its games."

Cost Analysts Witnesses In Soo Line Hearing

Two Soo Line Railroad witnesses testified Thursday in the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing in Marquette on a Soo Line application for joint trackage rights.

Opponents of the application had not begun to call witnesses yet Friday and it was estimated that the hearing is only halfway.

Witnesses called Thursday were Myron M. Richley and William Dorcy, cost analysts for the Soo in Minneapolis. Both men were cross examined.

The Soo Line's application is for joint trackage rights over the Lake Superior and Ishpeming Railroad's 30-mile line from Marquette to Eben. The Soo Line wants joint use of the line to shorten its route from Marquette to Lake Michigan and Chicago.

A series of "clinics" is being held by a team from the state auditor general's office to assist township supervisors in the 15 counties of the Upper Peninsula with veterans tax exemption problems, Auditor General Billie S. Farnum announces.

The officers will be in the State Office Building Conference Room, Escanaba Monday and Tuesday from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. on June 22 and 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. on June 23.

Purpose of the "clinic" is to afford township supervisors and assessors an opportunity to bring in 1964 tax exemption affidavits for review. The Auditor General's team, consisting of R. S. D'Amelia, director, Administrative Division, Vern Gulick, supervisor, Veterans Tax Exemption Section and Carl Aldrich, auditor, will review affidavits with each assessor and advise him on whether they are correct or whether additional information or evidence of eligibility is necessary. By making corrections now, reimbursement of claims submitted by townships in the latter part of the year will be expedited. Ineligible applicants can also be notified before tax bills are issued.

Wheat Allotment Change In View

A new farm wheat allotment may be established for 1965 crop of wheat for farms that did not have a 1964 allotment and meet eligibility requirements, Vincent Rappette of the Delta ASC Committee announced today. To be eligible for a new farm allotment, the operator must expect to receive more than 50 per cent of his income from the production of agricultural commodities on the farm, and neither the owner nor the operator may have an interest in any other farm which has a 1965 allotment.

Applications for a new allotment must be filed in the county office before June 30.

MARINETTE — A one-piece, bare-bosom bathing suit, designed about two months ago by Rudi Gerneich of Los Angeles, and Harmon Juster of Harmon Knitwear, Inc., Marinette, and manufactured exclusively by the Marinette firm, has caught the fancy of the fashion world and is being featured in national magazines, trade papers and television programs. The creation by Gerneich, exclusive designer for the Marinette concern, and Juster, is an outgrowth of their earlier forecast that in five years, or sooner, women would be wearing topless swim suits in private pools and in private party groups.
